The wide range of trails enables everyone to hike, regardless of the person's age, physical condition and preferences. The existing offer pleases the beginner as much as the adventurer. Choose a trail according to your preferences in terms of landscape, fauna, flora, biodiversity or contact with the population, but always taking your physical condition into account.

The Douro River

The Douro. It's the first thing that takes your breath away and the one vivid image that follows you back home. Sun-kissed rolling hills as far as the eye can see! Thousands of man-made wine terraces unfurling like ribbons! Red-roofed houses perched on seemingly unsuitable terrain! Spectacular sunsets! Jade-colored river undulating through it all! Everything's worthy of superlatives in the Douro—it's no surprise the entire region is designated as a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

The region's roads wind through those beautiful hills, forcing everyone to adjust to the local rhythm. If you come here with the city's stress flowing through your veins, you'll leave with a healthier heart rate. Slow down and enjoy the view because it's a huge part of what makes the Douro so magical.
